Cathedral records indicate the gate was built between 1504 and 1521 with funds provided by Priors Goldstone and Goldwell. This is despite the inscription of 1507 on the stonework "Hoc Opus constructum est anno Domini millesimo Quingentesimo decimo septimo," - a matter of ongoing dispute between

The first things a visitor is likely to see on entering the cathedral are the stoup and the statue of the Welcoming Christ high on the facing pillar. Christ appears with opened widespread arms of welcome. It was erected in 1971 to mark (a year late!) the 800 year anniversary of the death of Thomas Becket. The work was by a local sculptor, William Cyril Day, and the carving is in the wood afrormosia.

Highly decorated, the gateway was originally built to commemorate the marriage of Arthur, Prince of Wales, to Catherine of Aragon in 1502.
